

Young And Loving Teen

March 1972

BADFINGER: “Straight Up” review

Staff

It's been a long time since their last album release, but Badfinger have now come up with another winner for Apple Records just the same. Straight Up is an LP that deserves a lot of attention and is destined to receive it. George Harrison produced several of the tracks and the Beatle influence is very pronounced, especially in “I'll Die Babe” and “Day After Day.” A great group! Give them a spin.